

RoHS Statement

Semitron Corporation is an independent distributor of electronic components and does not manufacture any components, therefore Semitron is unable to represent or certify to our customers what materials are used in the manufacturing process of the components we sell.

Semitron does not perform any testing of products unless requested by the customer and relies solely on the manufacturer of the product for identification of RoHS Compliance. Semitron makes no warranty, certification, or declaration of compliance. All statements of RoHS compliance are based on manufacturers' documentation. Chemicals used in the components or the manufacturing of the components are selected and used at the sole discretion of the manufacturer. Certification of any chemical content is the sole responsibility of the manufacturer. Semitron does not add any of the RoHS substances during the handling process of electronic components.

Semitron does certify that it will ship to the customer the part and meet any date code restrictions as they appear on the customer's purchase order. Upon request, Semitron will supply information, if available, that a component may or may not be RoHS compliant according to the manufacturer's website or data sheet.

Mark James

A handwritten signature in blue ink that reads "M. James".

Quality Control

Semitron Corporation